

Ensuring Food Security in the era of COVID-19

FoodWise is an organization fighting against food waste and food insecurity in Mauritius for over two years. We help companies redistribute their food surplus to NGOs supporting people in need.

Since its creation FoodWise has managed to deliver more than 270 tons of food, the equivalent of 1,000,000 meals. One tenth of which was saved and donated during the lockdown.

As the consequences of the COVID-19 outbreak are expected to last, FoodWise takes the proactive position of responding to the upcoming food availability pains by expanding our surplus food redistribution capacities.

Our project includes developing a reliable web platform enabling the matching of food supply and demand, building a stronger logistics and transportation network to reach those in need safely and efficiently, and increasing our internal expertise.
